

Why has the Nova Scotia Association of REALTORS® introduced the Property Condition Disclosure Statement?

All REALTORS® in Nova Scotia support the idea that every Buyer and Seller should be entitled to fair dealings in their real estate transactions. It is for this reason that the Nova Scotia Association of REALTORS® has developed the Property Condition Disclosure Statement and recommends the use of this document in all transactions.

The Property Condition Disclosure Statement is designed to protect all persons involved in real estate transactions.

The objective is to encourage full communication so that Buyers pay and Sellers receive a fair price for the property, with the Buyers having as much information as possible concerning the property. Lawsuits are expensive and frequently result from a misunderstanding, communication problem, or lack of information.

Sellers may have difficulty establishing that a problem was disclosed to Buyers, and Buyers may be unable to establish that a statement was made or information was withheld unless important information is confirmed in writing on the Property Condition Disclosure Statement.

Copies of the Property Condition Disclosure Statement are available from your local REALTOR®.

The information contained in the Property Condition Disclosure Statement is provided by the Seller(s) of the property and is believed to be accurate; however, the brokerage, salespeople and the Nova Scotia Association of REALTORS® assume no responsibility or liability for its accuracy. The Buyer(s) should consider having the property inspected by appropriate professionals to verify the information.

How does the Disclosure Statement help the Sellers?

The Disclosure Statement assists the Sellers to review the condition of their property. It provides a written record of the representation made, and, just as important, not made. A complete Disclosure Statement will reduce the risk of a misunderstanding with the Buyers. A frequent complaint from Buyers is that a particular problem was not disclosed to them prior to purchase. Sellers should carefully consider each question so that all relevant information concerning that point has been included on the Disclosure Statement.

It is up to the Sellers whether they provide a Disclosure Statement to the Buyers; however, most Sellers are also Buyers and they will recognize the appropriateness of providing a Disclosure Statement. Many Sellers will recognize that a Disclosure Statement will increase the attractiveness of their property and will reduce the risk of possible claims by Buyers as complete written disclosure was made.

How does the Disclosure Statement help the Buyers?

The Sellers, who know the property best, provide the Buyers with some basic information concerning the property which may or may not be readily apparent to the Buyers upon a casual inspection. This information covers some common historical problem areas and gives the Buyers a list of points to consider in their inspection of the property. The information provided is valuable to the Buyer to answer concerns they may have or to identify issues the Buyer may want to investigate more fully.

How does the Disclosure Statement help the REALTOR®?

The REALTOR® communicates information between Sellers and Buyers. If there is a problem, the Buyers may claim misrepresentation or that information was improperly withheld. The Sellers may claim they relied on the REALTOR® to provide necessary information to the Buyers. The REALTOR® is caught in the middle. Many claims can be avoided if care is taken to provide a properly completed Disclosure Statement to the Buyers. The questions on the Disclosure Statement will assist the REALTOR® to review all relevant aspects of the property at the time the property is listed for sale and will ensure that all parties involved in the transaction have the same information.

How should the Disclosure Statement be used?

The Sellers will complete the Disclosure Statement at the time a property is listed for sale. The Sellers are responsible for the accuracy of the answers on this Disclosure Statement and if uncertain should reply "Do Not Know". Prospective Buyers will want to review the Disclosure Statement or will make an offer subject to their receiving and approving a Disclosure Statement within a specified time. The Disclosure Statement will form part of the Agreement of Purchase and Sale if so agreed in writing by the Sellers and Buyers. Sellers will respond directly to the questions and add clearly worded comments as required to describe their property. Buyers will carefully read the Disclosure Statement and request additional information or arrange independent inspections as necessary.
